ISUOG Education Course: Managing incidental ultrasound findings in gynecology Live stream

Welcome

We are delighted you will be attending ISUOG's Education Course: Managing incidental ultrasound findings in gynecology via live stream. The course will take place on Friday 1st June and we have prepared the below joining instructions to assist your participation in the event via distance.

Certificates of attendance

Live stream delegates who have logged in to the event will be sent a link to fill in an online evaluation form to receive a certificate of attendance following the course. Once this survey has been completed you will be redirected to our website where you can download and print off your certificate.

CME

This course has been awarded 6 European CME credits by the European Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education. Our live stream delegates are now eligible to receive CME provided they watch the course live while it is taking place. Please ensure you log in and log out on the day so we can capture this for EACCME.

Lecture recordings

The course will be professionally recorded. After the event has concluded the lecture recordings will be available for review on demand by registered delegates until 2nd July 2018 on the live streaming website. After this point, some of the lectures may be made available on ISUOG's CME platform. The selection of lectures available from the course will be at the discretion of, and on a timeline determined by, ISUOG's Education Committee.

Technical considerations

To view the webcast, your computer must be connected to the internet via a Broadband / ADSL or other high speed connection and you will need to have headphones or speakers connected to hear the audio. On the day of the course we recommend you log in at least 10 minutes before it's due to start.

Timing & Interaction

The program will broadcast on London, British Summer Time (BST). We recommend you log-in at the equivalent local time to ensure you can ask technical and clinical questions of our speakers and moderators and to be eligible for CME. Unfortunately we cannot respond to queries submitted to the live streaming website outside of course hours.
